

Open New Markets for American Goods and Services

Free Trade Agreements with Peru, Colombia, Panama and Korea will create jobs and grow the U.S. economy.

At FedEx, we've seen the results of FTAs

Our two-way trade volumes increase after FTAs are implemented. FTAs help FedEx build efficient global networks to better serve our customers.

FedEx enables global trade and competitiveness

Our global network and international trade services enable U.S. small- and medium-sized businesses to expand their access to new markets and improve their competitiveness.

International trade strengthens U.S. companies and creates jobs at home

The future growth and vitality of many U.S. companies is linked to international trade. Within the FedEx family of companies, we have over 14,000 jobs solely dedicated to supporting our international operations, but in reality all 228,000 of our U.S. employees benefit from our international growth.

Services are a key competitive strength of the U.S. economy

Services exports, including transportation services, reached $414 billion in 2006, with a trade surplus of $73 billion.

Freer trade helps American consumers by lowering the costs of many goods and services

World trade is estimated to improve the purchasing power of the average American family by $1,500 to $3,000 per year.

America can't afford to be left on the sidelines

Other countries are aggressively pursuing free trade agreements. If we don't secure favorable trade agreements for our goods and services, we open the door for others to take the lead in the global economy.

We urge Congress to pass the pending free trade agreements with Peru, Colombia, Panama and Korea.

FedEx is helping U.S. companies large and small reach new export markets in Peru, Colombia, Panama and Korea. FedEx Express is shipping high-tech products, pharmaceuticals, auto parts, medical equipment and many other products to those markets. Free trade agreements with these countries will make U.S. goods and services even more competitive.

After the U.S. signed an FTA with Chile in 2003, U.S. exports to Chile rose 90% in one year.

95% of the world's consumers are outside the U.S. Global trade is growing at twice the rate of global GDP.

FedEx supports strengthened U.S. trade adjustment and assistance programs to help more Americans benefit from free trade.
