

LATIN AMERICA TRADE COALITION

October 16, 2007

To Members of the U.S. Congress

On behalf of the Latin America Trade Coalition — a broad-based group of more than 700 U.S. companies, business and agricultural organizations, and chambers of commerce — we are writing to urge congressional approval of the U.S.-Peru Trade Promotion Agreement (PTPA) as soon as possible. The economic and foreign policy interests of the United States will be advanced by this landmark agreement with Peru, whose dynamic economy and democratic principles recommend it as a strong partner.

U.S. trade with Peru has doubled over the past three years, reaching $8.8 billion in 2006. More than 5,000 U.S. companies export their products to Peru, and more than 80% of these are small and medium-sized companies that stand to benefit directly from PTPA.

Above all, PTPA will allow the current U.S.-Peru trade relationship to mature into a mutually beneficial, reciprocal partnership. In 1991, the United States unilaterally opened its markets to most imports from Peru and its neighbors through the Andean Trade Preference Act, which has been renewed on several occasions in recent years. As a result, the average U.S. duty on imports from Peru is just one-tenth of one percent. By contrast, the U.S. International Trade Commission (USITC) reports that “most of Peru’s average tariff rates range from 12% to 25%.” In other words, Peruvians enjoy nearly free access to our marketplace while our access to theirs remains limited.

PTPA will fix this imbalance. Four-fifths of U.S. consumer and industrial products and two-thirds of U.S. farm exports will enter Peru duty-free immediately upon entry into force. The agreement will open services markets, safeguard investments, and secure intellectual property rights. As a result, the USITC estimates U.S. exports to Peru will increase by $1.1 billion under PTPA; the agreement will add $2.1 billion per year to the U.S. gross domestic product.

Deepening economic ties with the United States is also critical to Peru. U.S. companies employ more than 100,000 Peruvians directly and generate at least three times as many jobs indirectly. Far from leading a “race to the bottom,” these firms pay wages that are triple the average in Peru’s urban areas (and many times those in rural areas). Peruvian exports to the United States support approximately one million jobs, underscoring how economic ties to the United States are providing Peruvians with critically needed jobs, income, and tax revenues. President Alan García and members of Peru’s Congress have shown their support for a stronger partnership with the United States by approving PTPA by large majorities.

The U.S. Congress can lend a helping hand to workers, farmers, and companies in both the United States and Peru by also approving this landmark agreement. Doing so will send a clear signal that the United States continues to value its partnership with Peru. It will demonstrate support for democracy and development in the Andean region, transparency in business and government, and internationally recognized worker rights. We urge you to vote in support of the U.S.-Peru Trade Promotion Agreement.
